

Grebes are small diving waterbirds. Grebes spend most of their time on water, coming to land only to nest. At hatching, the grebe chicks are quickly led to water. Their parents carry them on their backs as protection from predators.